"A brief review of English majors' education in Chinese universities since 1949"

Prof. Guo Qingmin (Renmin University)

MO, 11. JAN, 18 UHR

In China's universities, an English major is more than a purely academic major. Students majoring in English have always been entrusted with a cultural and political mission, that is, to help the world know more about China and help China know more about the world. The speaker will give a brief review of the history of English majors in Chinese universities since 1949 to evaluate how it has accomplished this mission.
